

FISCAL NOTE

HB 156 - SB 637

February 23, 2001

SUMMARY OF BILL: Allows local governments 30 business days, rather than 30 days past the date a legal petition has been filed with the local governing body, to pass a resolution or ordinance calling for a local referendum on whether or not to levy a local gasoline tax. If, after that time period, the local governing body has not passed such a resolution or ordinance, the petition of voters will constitute such resolution or ordinance.

ESTIMATED FISCAL IMPACT:

MINIMAL

The changes resulting from passage of the bill would not affect the implementation or collection of the local gasoline tax, but only the time allowed for local governing bodies to pass their own resolutions or ordinances calling for a referendum on the levying of the tax.
